MARCH 10,11,12 Over the FREE weekend we have once again pulled out the stops to bring a whole bunch of new and popular performers to Congleton, plus a sprinkling of local favourites. As usual, most gigs will follow a standard 2 x 45 min sets with a 15 min break. There is something for everyone... whether you like Indie, Pop, Blues, Jazz or something else, just read the programme! The FREE weekend schedule follows on pages 4-7, venue details from page 10 onwards. If in doubt check with the venue before you go...

GET YOUR TICKETS EARLY! As usual we have some brilliant events lined up in the weeks before and after the main weekend. We're delighted to welcome John Lindley back to the festival with one of his unmissable talks and ever popular Poems and Pints night. There's a fabulous night of swing music to kick us off and a blockbuster of a closing gig at the end of the month. See pages 8 and 9 for further details and make sure you GRAB YOUR TICKETS EARLY!!

CHILDREN Generally, afternoon gigs are more child friendly than evening gigs. Please be aware venues get very busy, and that during the evening some venues tend to become noisy and busy. If in doubt check with the venue before you go.

Bring on the Swing

After their fabulous debut at Congleton Jazz & Blues festival last August, Bring on the Swing will be back opening Unplugged for us. This 8-piece, pint-sized big-band features silky vocals, a swinging rhythm section and horns that'll blow your socks off. An evening full of Sinatra classics, Ray Charles dancefloor favourites and more cracking swing-era tunes made popular again by Bubl  and Robbie Williams.

CONFESSIONS OF A FREELANCE POET

BY JOHN LINDLEY

21 years ago, John Lindley gave up his day job and created another for himself: Full-time Freelance Poet. Since then his work has taken him to Nantwich and Nairobi, into prisons and care homes, onto canal boats and into Travellers' caravans. His poems, and those he has helped both children and adults create, have been etched in metal on town centre trail markers, jet-painted onto pavements, installed in telephone boxes and projected onto dinner plates. An evening of stories, poems and projected images in which John Lindley reveals (nearly) all.

TICKETS £7. in advance DOORS 6.30PM

Tickets available from Congleton Tourist Info, or online from WeGotTickets.
(At each event there will be a £2 surcharge on tickets bought on the door)
